

Social and humanitarian disciplines in the 2022-2023 academic year

I semi-annual report on the organization, implementation and results of curatorial work of the department

All teachers of the department have been regularly participating in public affairs at the faculty and university level. Curatorial work in the department was completed according to the schedule planned at the beginning of the year.

The curators were regularly conducting the curatorial work on time according to the schedule established in the 1st semester and the work plan established for the 2022-2023 academic year. Students' achievements, contract payments, list of students living in hostels, list of married students, list of athletes, activists are recorded in curatorial journals.

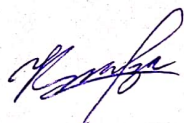

Curator hours are organized by the curator on the basis of the curatorial manual, the student's achievement of lessons during the curator hours is reported by the headmaster in the form of a weekly and monthly report: the debate topics set according to the schedule established in the curator hour are presented by the students in the form of a report.

The curator got to know the students' parents and worked together. Also, parents were fully introduced to the grades included in the AVN system for student achievement and participation.

The dean's office assigned curatorial work for first-year students to the department. During the year, each teacher worked with his curatorial group in the social-educational and educational process, the curatorial report of each group is attached.

The curatorial work set according to the plan was completed in the first half of the year; weekly and monthly curatorial hours were also monitored for students' attendance and learning. Active participation of students in the group in extracurricular social activities was monitored by curators.

Senior curator:

Jeenbaeva K.A