

Group 11B

Subject: Methods of Scientific and Clinical Research

Teacher: Mohd Faizan Siddiqui

05/10/2024 at the International Medicine Faculty, Osh State University, convened to discuss a group research project centered on blood availability and transfusion safety among patients in low- and middle-income countries (LMICs). The study aims to identify opportunities for implementation science (IS) to improve the availability of safe blood and transfusion practices in LMICs, focusing on sustainable strategies for proven-effective interventions. Regional groups were established to tackle challenges specific to different areas, highlighting the overarching theme of ensuring an ample supply of safe blood. A research outline, including prominent subtopics, was distributed among the students for further exploration as part of their task.

